BASEMENT

Will Add Room to Wooster Ave.
Reformed Church.

Children's day exercises were held at the Wooster ave. Reformed church Sunday morning. There were 300 present at the regular Sunday school, and the church was filled to its utmost capacity at the special services that were held at 10:30 a.m. Mr. William H. Myers' class had charge of the decorations, which were neat and tasteful. An orchestra furnished special music and the numerous relations of the children were pleasing and instructive. Liberal offerings were made for the Sunday school, which has been growing so rapidly that the basement of the church is now being excavated to provide additional accommodations.

ANOTHER

Operation Upon the President.

A New York Specialist In Attendance.

Physicians Declare There Is No Danger.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—Another operation was performed Sunday on President Roosevelt's leg, which, though reported to be simply a precautionary measure, necessitated the presence of Dr. Newton M. Shaffer of New York, a specialist in diseases of the bone, and occasioned the issuing of the following bulletin by Secretary Cortelyou later in the afternoon:

"Dr. Newton M. Shaffer of New York joined the President's physicians in consultation this morning at 10 o'clock. The increase in local symptoms and a rise in temperature rendered it necessary to make an incision into the small cavity, exposing the bone, which was found to be slightly affected. Thorough drainage is now established and the physicians feel confident that recovery will be uninterrupted. The operation was performed by Surgeon General Rixey, assisted by Dr. Lung and in consultation with Surgeon General O'Reilly and Drs. Shaffer, Urie and Stitt.

"George B. Cortelyou, Secretary to the President."

After the operation the physicians and surgeons in charge reported the President's condition to be all that could be expected. No anesthetic was used, and as soon as the dressings had been applied to the wound the patient was lifted back to the couch he had occupied since his return to this city, and resumed reading, an occupation that had been interrupted by the visit of the doctors.

Dr. Newton M. Shaffer, the specialist who was called from New York to examine the wound, is yet in the city, and will not leave, it is said, for a day or two. He was at one time one of the President's family physicians. He called at the temporary White House last night and remained with his patient a short time.

To newspaper correspondents Dr. Shaffer said the condition of the President was entirely satisfactory, but he refused to make a statement regarding the case, explaining that the matter is in the hands of Drs. Rixey, O'Reilly, and Lung, and it would be a violation of professional courtesy for him to make any comment. The other surgeons in attendance expressed themselves as entirely satisfied with the President's progress, and referred all inquiries to Secretary Cortelyou.

From what could be learned at the White House it would appear that the process of healing after the operation at Indianapolis had been greatly impaired by the restlessness of the patient. The enforced idleness of the President is very irksome to him and it is believed that he has unconsciously disturbed the dressing of the wound. The attending surgeons examined the dressing each day and the last thing before Mr. Roosevelt retired for the night. It was found on removing the bandages Saturday evening that the wound did not appear to have as much drainage as was believed to be conducive to rapid healing and consequently it was decided to reopen the first incision and clean out the wound. Dr. Shaffer was summoned in consultation in order that the bone might be examined by an expert.

BEATRICE EARLE IN "THE IDEALS."

An Actress With Many Friends Here—Theatrical Notes.

The Ideals opened a week's stand at the Grand this afternoon with "Captain Impudence." The company is strong and the play was well put on. It will be repeated tonight.

Miss Beatrice Earle, the bright little star of the company, has as many friends in this city as any actress who comes here. Not only does her professional work win her many admirers, but her bright and winsome personality and general good humor have made her an idol of matinee girls. That she is still at the head of the "Ideals" will be pleasing intelligence to her friends. This season Miss Earle has the best line of parts in which she has ever appeared, many of which are almost "tailor made" to her abilities. During the summer Miss Earle has spent a small fortune in handsome and attractive gowns, and as no dress of the entire week is "repeated" it is safe to say the ladies will have something to think about before Saturday night.

Stuart Robson, who has revived "The Comedy of Errors" on a most elaborate scale for the present season, and who will be seen in his famous part as Dromio of Syracuse, at the Colonial Theatre tomorrow night, plans to make his present season his last in Shakespearean comedy. Mr. Robson has been closely associated during his 40 odd years on the stage. Mr. Robson has become a rich man through his profession, is now reputed to be worth more than a million dollars, and, according to Daniel V. Arthur, his manager, intends to devote the rest of his years on the stage to the creation of absolutely new parts.

The attraction at the Colonial theatre next Wednesday night will be Joseph M. Sparks, the funniest Irish comedian now before the public, in the new musical comedy, "Mr. O'Reilly." The cast contains 50 people and among them May Vokes, the inimitable Dutch girl of "My Friend From India." The scenery and costumes are on the same elaborate scale as all the big productions of the New York Theatre management, which sends Mr. Sparks on the road for his first starring tour. He has been the chief support of May Irwin for the past five years. Two carloads of scenery are carried. Seats were placed on sale this morning.

The brothers Kennard, the European grotesques who were specially imported by Chas. H. Yale and Sidney R. Ellis to appear in the roles of the twin mutes Nid and Nod in the kaleidoscopic spectacle, "The Evil Eye," have been re-engaged and will be seen in this year's production next Thursday at the Colonial theatre. They made an unquestionable emphatic hit of large dimensions, it being generally conceded that they have scored much stronger than any of their predecessors in these parts.

Practical Suggestions About What to Eat and How to Prepare Food.

These articles on the necessarily absorbing topic of food are carefully prepared and based on knowledge of chemistry as applied to cooking and practical information derived from actual experience.

TO KEEP GRAPES FRESH.

The following method has been used with perfect success by those who have their own vines and is worth trying at least. Allow the grapes to remain on the vines as long as possible without their freezing. Select a cool, dry day for gathering them. Handle them entirely by the stems to avoid bruising them and cut leaf and stem as long as possible. Pick over carefully, rejecting all over-ripe, imperfect bunches. Pack as soon as gathered. Now, wooden cheese boxes with close fitting lids are the best for packing, but heavy pasteboard boxes, without a break, will answer nicely. Get a supply of dry cork dust from the drug store; this is easily obtained and inexpensive, and is a nonconductor of heat and will keep the grapes dry and in perfect condition. Put a layer of the cork in the boxes, then lay in the grapes carefully, not allowing the grapes to touch one another. Cover well with the cork dust and add another layer of grapes, and continue in this way until the box is full. Put on the covers and fasten down securely and put the boxes in a dry, cool place and they will keep for months.

CANNED GRAPES.

Grapes are not canned entire on account of their objectionable seeds. If you desire them for a sauce to serve with rich fatty meat like roast pork or goose, use the green grapes, and for grapes, if you can get them: ripe grapes are nicer for other meats. Stem the grapes, wash and drain them, then pulp, putting the skins in one earthen crock and pulp into another. Place the crocks in vessels of hot water and heat slowly. Stir the pulp frequently, with a wooden spoon, to separate the seeds. Now rub the pulp through a colander to remove the seeds; put it into a preserving kettle with the skins and allow half a pound of sugar to each quart of the pulp and skin, if ripe grapes, and a little more for the green grapes, unless you like a tart sauce. Boil the whole until the skins are tender, then can and seal.

SPICED GRAPES.

Stem, wash and drain the grapes. Mash and cook sufficiently to strain out the seeds and skins, rub through a colander. To eight pounds of grapes allow four pounds of sugar, one quart vinegar and cinnamon, cloves and allspice to suit the taste. Simmer until it is smooth and quite thick.
